

Making every day count for real users

For 68-year old Victor his work as a self-employed smith is an important part of his identity. That's why when his wounds refused to heal, he felt he was suffering from more than just physical pain. He was gradually losing his self-worth.

Following surgery to repair an aortic aneurysm, Victor was expecting a quick recovery. However, complications during surgery led to him nearly losing his left leg. His leg was saved but he left hospital with several large wounds.

"The donor site wound just kept on bleeding. I often woke at night soaked in blood. When the dressing on my graft wounds was changed, it stuck to the wound and the tissue, and then the bleeding started again," he explains.

Faced with the pain and discomfort, Victor was delighted to be given the chance to try Biatain Silicone. This made a great difference to his daily life as it stayed in place, did not leak and caused minimal pain when the dressing was changed.

"I'm a very impatient man and just sitting in my chair every day not being able to get into my workshop made me feel like a patient, and not who I really am."

Thanks to Biatain Silicone, his wounds have now healed. Today he is back at work enjoying getting his hands dirty once again.

"I'm happy to be back in my workshop again, doing what I've been doing for the last 40 years."
